

We have been having great fun in Year 2 learning a story about 'The Papaya that spoke'. We spent a few days learning the story off by heart and making up actions to help us to remember the words in the story. We then acted the story out as a whole class! With the help of our 'story-telling cloak', some children were even brave enough to retell the story on their own.

In History, we are learning all about King Charles II. This week we have been looking at the time before he was king and what was happening in England in 1642 during the reign of his father (King Charles I) and the English Civil War.

In Maths, the children have been working hard adding and subtracting 2-digit numbers and learning strategies for when the number crosses the next ten.
